How Do We Protect Our Ears?

How Do We Protect Our Bodies?

Participatory state-of-the-art training for company supervisors, line workers, and safety staff. Learn why and how to protect hearing and why and how to protect the body from the most frequent types of injuries in the green industry. The new training program will be piloted in two sessions led by a Pennsylvania State University safety expert. Evaluation data and feedback will be solicited from participants, who will receive free safety equipment. Participating companies will receive free training products, professionally produced for the green industry. Participants will receive one CEU per hour toward PLANET recertification.
